GIVEAWAY HAD ENDED AND COMMENTS ARE CLOSED

First Act is a company that specializes in musical instruments. They are an innovative company with high-quality musical products. In addition to instruments for teens and adults, they also carry instruments for kids ages 3-9 with their First Act Discovery line of products and toys to help introduce music to babies and preschoolers with their Little First Act Discovery line of products.

I have decided to save Penny to give to Abby as a Christmas gift this year, but I just know she is going to love her. First of all, Penny is soft and pink and very huggable. She sits at least 12 inches high, probably close to 14 inches and is just adorable. Penny plays piano sounds, learning messages and songs by pressing her arms, hands or feet. Abby loves musical toys, especially stuffed animals and usually it is hard for her to locate and press the tiny button that activates the music. Since Penny was designed for little hands with bigger areas to press, she should have no trouble activating the sounds.

I can't wait to see Abby play with Penny. With 8 songs, Abby will be dancing her little heart out and boy is she a dancer. From swinging her arms to twisting her hips to bouncing on her legs, Penny will help to encourage her already apparent love for music, teach her to count and learn her ABC's and really help her interact with the music in a way she never could before.

If you think Penny Piano looks and sounds as great as I do, you have the chance to win a Parker Piano, the blue version of Penny Piano because Little First Act Discovery was generous enough to send me one to give away to you fine people!
